She was preceded in death by her mother, Carolyn M. (Crane) Banks; her husband, Adam Hofman; and her grandparents, Charles J. and Icey Crane.

“ Angela was my best friend for about 2 years now. The obituary describes her perfectly. She was a trooper even though she had been through so much. She never gave up. I will miss her sweet smile, her laugh, and her texts that always said, “Hi there, beautiful friend!” or something similar. She always expressed love in a way most people don’t. We need more of people like her. My heart is breaking, but I know she’s so happy and healthy doing what she longed to do – seeing Adam, never being alone, finally walking again, and seeing our Savior. Can’t wait to see you again, my friend.
