“ Please accept my sincerest condolences. The death of a loved one is one of the most devastating experiences a human can face. Although words can not ease the pain, know that you are in my thoughts and prayers. May the God of love, Jehovah, be with you and comfort you in the days ahead (1 John 4:8; Psalm 83:18). Soon there will come a day where God “will swallow up death forever, and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will wipe away the tears from all faces...for Jehovah himself has spoken it.” (Isaiah 25:8) In the meantime may you find comfort in God's Word and the hope of a resurrection during these difficult times. “Jehovah is near those that are broken at heart; and those who are crushed in spirit he saves.” (Psalm 34:18; John 5:28, 29) If you would like to know more about Jehovah God's promises I encourage you to visit www.jw.org. May you benefit from the spiritual food provided.

“ Two years ago this month my mother, Ruth McClung, joined Anna's table at Garden Villa. Anna was always a delight to talk to when I visited often at meal times. She was a lovable lady who was proud of her daughters and enjoyed talking about her life growing up in North Carolina. Her thoughts led often to stories of growing up with her brothers, Bob and Don, and of her parents who lived simply and enjoyed fresh fish, squirrels, and rabbits from their hunts. I have missed her smiles and stories greatly and hope you will be comforted in your memories of a dear mother and grandmother. I was blessed by getting to visit with her.
