“ Bryan, I only heard about your passing recently. I am so heartbroken; I always thought our reunion was right around the corner. I will miss your singing, whether Shoshone songs or Korean trot. What a warm, generous, and bright person you were to all of us during those Eugene days. I learned so much from you.

I have a story for you. I met Juyeon ohnni recently, and I told her that you had passed. We talked about how shiny a person you were, how you lit up the room wherever you went. We were picking up dinner at the supermarket and spied a few sacks of raw oysters. Low and behold, they were from Coos Bay. I am certain that you heard us talking about you that day. I know that you understood both languages we were speaking, too! We miss you so dearly. I send my deepest condolences to your family and friends.

“ I attended your memorial this weekend, dawj. I saw first hand what I already knew. You brightened so many peoples lives. Not only that, you connected so many people who would have never met if not for Ada' Bry saying "come to Nevada with me, let's go handgame, come to Idaho, I want to take you to ceremony, I want you to meet this person, let's go to Bear Dance, Warm Dance, Powwow, you gotta meet (so many people!), I wanna hear you girls sing together, hey learn this song (and this one, and that one, and these too!)." I didn't get it back then, what our road trips really were. You connected people on purpose, you taught, you encouraged. You knew we would continue the work. You sacrificed so much so you could do what you were put here for. Home was always too far away, but you were meant to do great things and to do it well meant you had to travel. I still have your jar of Asian pear butter btw, just waiting on you to send me your address.....

You would teach me newe and then look at me all appalled "kai semme yukwinna, don't talk like that! You're gonna get me in trouble!" 🙄

I was so fortunate to walk this earth for 29 years with you, Dawi.... I know life wasn't always easy. Your big ole heart has been through a lot, not all of it easy. But no matter what, you kept going. Literally as long as you could. The language, the ceremonies...it was so important to you that we learn, preserve and protect. We will. I love you Dawj, safe travels.

“ Bryan in the brief time I was blessed to touch a star you owned my soul. The world will never be so bright again. About your heart, liked it. I liked it in the oldest way.

*in the brief time I was blessed to touch a star, you owned what was left of my soul forever. The world we truly never be as bright again. Concerning your heart. I liked it. I liked it in the oldest way. If I could pray it would be to your God. That we could laugh or even fight just once more somewhere in time.
It's hard to believe you have been gone almost a year. The hole in my heart will never heal. I think of you every day.*

“ The world lost another bright soul. Bryan was a few years older than my children and always kind to them as they grew up in camp. When we visited the University of Oregon campus we were surprised to find he was a keynote speaker for the visiting high school students. He invited my son on stage and introduced him as a ceremonial brother. They would both eagle scouts, college graduates, and bright young men. As Bryan became fluent in his tribal language, he shared his abilities with others. While he was working in Korea he told me that he found some similarities in the way their language was spoken. When I told him I had a few Shoshone students, he began sending me recordings of traditional songs to share with them. I enjoyed hearing them so much. During Covid he made it more bearable by inviting me to zoom with the Good Shepard Church and hear him and others sing songs of hope and faith I lean on the promise that we will see him again. Good journey Bryan.

“ Bry, Bry. I miss you so much already. We are headed to SLC next week to look into the Archives and you would've been our main contact. Memories of you are embedded in my heart. Our days hanging out in Portland while you lived there. Spending Thanksgiving with you in SLC and the ham dinner you cooked before heading out to Fort Duchesne to play Handgame. Your visits to Nevada, staying up late singing and listening to music. Whether it be Handgame songs, Korean traditional tunes, Shoshone, Paiute or Comanche, we listened to it all. Your chef skills while staying with you in Pocatello...I can go on and on. Most of all, I will miss your heart for teaching the language and your willingness to share. Love you Bryan. Prayers for your family and all of your friends. See you on the other side.

“ Bryan was a good friend and we called each other brothers. He use to come to my house in Battle Mountain Nevada for Christmas. He always told me my mother in law made the best tomales ever he always missed them. We always told about our tradition from sweats , Sundance and different ceremonies. We always shared Sundance songs and ceremony songs and always handgame songs. We even talked about if one of us leave this earth we were going to be there for one another to do each other services and how we won't it. I told him I was going to go first since I was way older them him he just laughed. I am sure going to miss is called and tex when he was going to send me a song. He was sure a amazing guy. He will always be in my heart forever tell we meet again my brother.

“ My favorite memory would have to be when he stayed at my house in Duckwater while being my handgame Director he took out his laptop found his songs and him and I was just singing our handgame songs all loud and proud. And he was one to tell me and my kids that when we sing we are to sing loud and to never be ashamed of singing our songs. Many more memories but this was my fav. He cooked us burritos that next morning and so my son called him “uncle Bryan the one who made me a burrito with an avacado” lol He will forever be missed I'll miss my songs he used to send me all the time. Much respect and love Cuz Bryan. We'll miss you 🥹
