She graduated from the Elmira Free Academy, then attended Stephens College, Elmira College, and Florida State University, where she earned an MLS from the School of Library Science. She worked at the Cincinnati, Ohio, Public Library before marriage, and, after raising her children, returned to work for 24 years at the Newark, New Jersey, Public Library before retiring in 2006. Carolyn, or "Kay" to her many friends, met her future husband, Frank Deodene, while both worked as librarians in Cincinnati. They wedded in 1960, and eventually settled in suburban New Jersey. They were married for over 50 years, until Frank's passing in 2011. Carolyn was also predeceased by her two older sisters, Margery Yater and Mary Pajic. Carolyn raised her family in Chatham, New Jersey, and, after her husband's passing, moved to nearby Morristown. She enjoyed reading, listening to classical music, watching PBS documentaries, and taking nature walks. She was a contributor to the National Society of Arts and Letters and to Indiana University's Jacobs School of Music. Throughout her life, Carolyn was the caregiver of her extended family, taking time off from work to care for her two sisters, her adult son, and others in their times of need. “ It was with a heavy heart that I read of Kay's passing in the NJ Ledger. Please accept my deepest sympathies. Kay and Frank were my neighbors across the street in Chatham, NJ for many, many years. I am still on Maple St, and to this day, while I have nice neighbors, none of them come close to Kay (and Frank). I fondly remember my lunches with Kay. I loved her dry wit, her intellect, our laughs, and our discussions on world events. I was about to call her to chat over the holidays, when I read of her passing. She seemed to me to be a light to all who would meet her - she certainly was for me. I will keep you and Kay in my prayers. And I will continue to think of her fondly every time I look across the street at her beautiful red house on Maple St.

“Saddened to learn of the homegoing of “Kay” who I knew as a librarian co-worker at The Newark Public Library. Many memories of the 26 years together in service to the public and the lunch hours and other times we happily shared. Loved her kind and caring spirit and her great sense of humor!

Love, peace, and deepest sympathy to the Deodene Family.
