She was a graduate of Brown County High School in 1991 and attended Indiana University. She had the opportunity to spend two years in Belgium and enjoyed being able to travel in Europe while working and also worked for United Airlines for seven years. She was a beloved daughter, mother, granddaughter and sister.

She leaves behind her parents Susie Rejko of Bloomington and Jesse Rejko, her daughter Briley Shane Turner of Bloomington, her father, Steven Campbell of Nashville, IN, her grandparents, Robert and Virginia Davis of Morgantown, her aunts, Marti Reynolds of Bloomington, Mary Wagers of Nashville and Tammy Cravens of North Vernon, IN, uncle Danny Campbell of Nashville, her great uncle Danny Davis of Crossville, TN, all her cousins and extended family. Chris was a free spirit with a love of life that will continue on for a multitude of generations through her organ donor gifts. She knew no strangers and loved animals, hiking and she studied Native Indian culture and traditions. As was described by a family member, "She beamed with life, radiant, giving and humorous. Whether a child, adolescent or woman, she beamed with a life everlasting, her smile was only obscured by the rays of the sun itself, her eyes danced with sparkles found on the water's surface of a gentle stream, her hair laid in curls upon her shoulders with a majesty unparelled".

“ I remember Chris as a beautiful person through and through, I worked with her at United and we spent many a break together; she had a very nice and soothing personality...conscientious of all around her. I feel it is certainly true she never met a stranger~!~A kindred spirit with many different walks of life is how I saw her...also someone who could and would fight the good fight--that, and didn't she have just the prettiest hair. (smile) My condolences to her family and in particular, her daughter, of whom I know she was very proud and loved very much.
