

Donald R. Whitehead

September 14, 1932 - February 6, 2018

Friends and colleagues of Donald Whitehead, who passed away at age 85 in February, are invited to attend a Celebration of Life event on September 30th. The event will take place at the Clubhouse at the Fields from 11 AM – 1 PM. RSVP's are requested via the link below.

Don resided in Bloomington for over 50 years. He was a professor in the Biology Department at Indiana University, beginning his long career at IU in 1967. He was actively involved in the birding community as a member of the Sassafras Audubon Society, leading their annual Christmas Bird Count for over 25 years. He was also an Advisory Board Member of the Sycamore Land Trust and involved in the conservation of land in Indiana. Fittingly, a nature trail is being dedicated in honor of Don and his wife Betsy at the end of September.

Don is predeceased by his wife of 33 years, Elizabeth Pleasants Whitehead. He is survived by his children, Peter Whitehead (June) of Woodstock, GA and Pamela Whitehead (Paul Almond) of Sacramento, CA, and grandchildren Jaclyn Whitehead Kroll (Brendan Kroll) and Colin Whitehead, as well as the Fuller family cousins on the east coast.

Many will remember Don not only as a passionate environmentalist and educator, but as an avid sports fan and gourmet cook. The Whitehead family invites all that knew and loved Don to join them as they celebrate a life well-lived! For details on the Celebration of Life, and to RSVP, please log onto:
