He was such a valuable member to our work family not only professionally, but personally. He was the first person you saw when entering the office every morning, which was a pleasure to all. We will cherish our many years of memories and will forever feel honored to have known our Greggy. One of Greg's favorite hobbies was to take his friends on wild adventures, from the deepest dungeons to the farthest reaches of space, all from the comfort of his basement and preferably with pizza involved. He loved his friends gathering around the table to have fun and add their own crazy takes on stories he wrote. He was an amazing husband, father, he loved his wife, kids and loved spending time with his family . He will be greatly missed.
