“ Jade is my best friend. I loved her dearly. She was the first person that I told when I found out I was pregnant with my daughter. She was the only person besides my mother and my husband who I trusted to take care of my children because she had, a mother's heart. She had , a mother's heart. She had her fair share of struggles and battled addiction the same way I did and we bonded over that we bonded over our children and over our Hope that we could create better lives for them than we had. Jade was loved by many. sometimes Eric was the only one who could reach her, most of the time I could reach her too. You could catch us eating breakfast at the Shalom Center or walking around downtown in the cold in the winter or sitting in the sun at the park in the summer and when I was able to get my car catch us riding around in my red Jeep. Taco Bell we probably should have and playing at the park with my little boy. My heart breaks for her children. My heart breaks for her parents. My heart breaks for Eric and my heart breaks for everyone who knew her and loved her for the loss of her! I miss you, Jadey Lady. I expect to see your face first when I go home to heaven someday.

“ My memory of Jade is from many years ago. She was a beautiful little girl at Highland Park Elementary school and a dear friend of my daughter’s, Chelsea Walters. She was at our house for a birthday party for Chelsea with several other children. I was talking with her and some how we got on the subject of singing. She said "I can sing. I sing at church". I asked her what she sang at church and she said ..."Amazing Grace." She started singing and her voice was absolutely beautiful. I will never forget that moment and will remember that beautiful little voice forever. Rest in peace sweet Jade.
