“ Jim was such a great asset to Building Associates. I have had the opportunity to work with Jim on many projects over the last 10 years and every project was a success. Jim was a joy to work with and always had a great sense of humor regardless of the situation. I am so sorry that we lost Jim so soon. I pray for the lord to comfort Jim's family and friends during this time of great loss.

“ so... i'm packing long boards one by one to the back of the house, unloaded out by the street because that's what i do, or did. this strapping young kid rides up on a noisy old kawasaki and offers to help, i said no thanks but he starts carrying them anyway. thinking he probably needed gas money i told him i had a can of two cycle mix in the back of the truck and he could help himself, he said nope, bikes full. working regularly around Howard's subdivision he said he saw me come and go a lot. Said he was from Eastern Greene, like me, i knew then i would never hire him. Next Saturday he's back, as luck would have it he was just checking back to see if i was still convinced that i did not need help. I said i really think it's all okay, besides i've got Bryan, Jerry, and this other guy. Jim quips apparently on Saturdays, their invisible. Yep. At that moment i ponder the best possible to get away from this red headed wise-ass of a so and so, i figure it must be time to leave for the day. So as i am trying to start my truck which seems to like Ole Jim, the battery dies out. Jim, realizing the opportunity says, "maybe we could jump it off my bike, or i could pull you to the top of the hill". Do you have cables or a rope, i said i have both a couple of miles from here, he said, "hop on". That day turned out to be one of the most profitable days of my life. 27 years later when he told me he had an opportunity he couldn't pass on, two grown men cried like babies. i'm crying now, so long you crazy thing. May rest your soul and big, fat, wonderful heart. I will truly miss you.
