

James Perry

December 27, 1936 - June 16, 2012

James D. Perry, 75, of Bloomington passed away Saturday at the Monroe House in Bloomington. He was born on December 27, 1936 in Evansville, Indiana, the son of Max and Rita (Simpson) Perry. James graduated from Bosse High School and received a bachelors and masters degree at Indiana University. He worked in the Telecommunications Department at Indiana University as a professor. Survivors include his brother John Perry of Kent, OH; three sons Brad Perry and Nathan Perry both of Minneapolis, MN and Scott Perry of Carmel, IN; one daughter Angie Perry Ross of Paducah, KY; and six grandchildren Perry, Katherine, Sam, Lucas, Amos and Jack. He was preceded in death by his parents and his second wife Virginia Thompson Perry. A private memorial will be held at a later date. Memorial contributions may be made to the Indiana University Foundation.

Tribute Wall

LE

“ On behalf of the Dept of Telecommunications and colleagues and friends of Jim, we send our condolences to the family. It's sad to lose folks who were instrumental to the early years of radio and tv at Indiana University.

Legene White - October 26, 2015 at 04:17 PM

HE

“ My condolences to the Perry family. Jim and I were colleagues in the Indiana University Radio and Television Services and academic department for many years. I send my warmest regards and support.
Herbert Seltz

Herbert Seltz - October 26, 2015 at 04:17 PM