“ Larry was an exceptional man in so many ways. He had a vast knowledge and appreciation of antiques, not just the things he was passionate about either, he could tell you about quilts and linens and dish patterns and about a million other things too. I always had a question or three saved for the next time I saw Larry, if he didn't outright know what a thing was he never failed to see clues you hadn't. Larry was also a true gentleman, fair in his dealings, always polite, didn't complain and looked you right in the eye when he shook your hand. My condolences to his family and loved ones.
