“ I met Margaret in 1987 when I started teaching at Rogers Elementary. She was a favorite of mine right away. Margaret took pride in her efforts and loved being around the children. She would often write notes of encouragement to them on the chalkboard. They were always excited to see her messages and would eagerly write back to her. I learned many things from Margaret that became part of my teaching throughout my career. She was a wonderful person, and I owe her a lot for taking me under her wing!
