“ A dearly beloved Pastor, friend, and mentor. He was always teaching you something about life and making you feel like you were very important. Such great passion with all of the people around him, especially the people in nursing homes. I've seen him get down on his knees and tell the person that he did that so he could be on the same level they were, so he could look into their eyes and relate on a one to one basis, that they were very important to him. He was always chasing "rabbits" that was one of his favorite sayings. He hated grape-nuts and shredded wheat but loved Banana-pudding and would eat the whole bowl full if he could. He and his wife Judy were the best friends you could have, honest, trustworthy, kind, caring, very forgiving, patient, and friendly a great parents, and loved kids. He was so very patient with the children and his kindness showed with everyone. Going to miss him but he's home with Judy and all that meant so much to him. Now he can really chase those "rabbits" Love always. Jan
