“ Oh how the news of you not being here on earth with everyone just doesn't seem right. A world without your shining beam of life and not ever feeling your spirit among us again doesn't sit right for me. You were always so cheerful in what can be a dark and painful world. I remember in High-school we were in 3D art together and at that time you and I were boyfriend and girlfriend and I remember we played as if we were married it was silly. I just wanted to say you'll truly be missed even though we haven't spoke or seen each other in years... until it's my time to see those pearly gates save me a seat where the cool kids sit. Meet you at gate 8.

“ Ryan was such a fun, kind person when we were growing up. I attended House of Prayer with him in the 90's. His Dad and mine could have been twins (we always thought that was so funny) Rest in Heaven. Prayers for his wife, children, brothers and sisters and of course the entire family.

“ I don't even know where to start. I can't even believe you are gone. You were definitely one of a kind. A true friend who would go to war for the ones he loved. In the 5 years we knew each other I can honestly say the kind of laughter we shared was almost unhealthy. I will miss tearing down a chimney while laughing like two little schoolgirls. It is hard telling what some of the homeowners thought about us lol. You were a good person and you will be missed by everyone who came in contact with you. I love you buddy and would have done anything I could for you. My thoughts and prayers go out to Beth and Gracie and your boys Alex and Nick. I can't express how sorry I am for your loss. I loved Ryan like a brother. Hell, he called my parents mom and dad. This is tearing me up so I can't imagine how you all feel and what you are going through.

“ Very sad and hard to type. Ryan taught many men how to climb towers and make some decent money. We was 18 and climbing and stacking steel hundreds of feet in the air! Been to 46 states and have a lot of good memories of jokes and acting like fools all just to be having fun and making money. Ryan had a soft kind heart and always loved to laugh. I will miss him. To his family: i am sorry for your loss. Prayers for you all!
