“ Remembering Sharon

Dear E.G.:

Many years back and forward, almost always happy, delicious meals together, and full of IU conversation. Neighbors! Helping one another, enjoy mutual friends, events, and football games. We were lucky Sharon's last two days before her final descent into her illness were two Jotham's had a chance to be with you both. He will remember his time with her forever. Thank you for making that visit for him for him to say good bye. I am sorry I screwed up and missed it.

Now for a moment to share let me share some thoughts about Sharon. First, and foremost, Sharon always impressed me for the depth of her interest in my family and her ability to separate fact from fiction. This lady had a bullshit detector of some breadth and depth. She did not suffer fools and would not give them the time of day. She wrapped herself around her family and eventually, her daughter-in-law, Heather and her grandchildren. Being a grandmother was something she embraced.

I believe Sharon was a confidante in her social group and kept her own counsel. She might offer an opinion and often said, "And what do I know." A self-effacing quality that I always admired.

Her starring role besides being Brett White's mother in every way, was being E.G. constant companion. She was always present, an observer, who could be counted on for an astute comment, short, and sweet. When she took a stand, she could be moved. She knew when life was most important and who was most important in it.

Always, we will miss her each day.

“ EG: I am so sorry for your loss. I remember the several conversations we had when both Sharon and Lorelei were being treated for breast cancer 20 years ago. That was a painfull time but Sharon survived that ordeal. Lorelei is again being treated for a more serious and unrelated cancer, so we get to do it all over again and then some. Please know we are thinking about you. Geoff Grodner
