“ Staci was an ornithology student of mine at IU and I remember her well, despite the years that have past since that time! She was one of my first students who showed a true passion in birds and science education. I remember when she got the job at Wonderlab and how excited she was! Staci was a great science educator and her loss is a loss to the community as well as her family!

“ Staci was an amazing teacher, enthusiastically sharing her love of science with all of the kids she came in contact with at MCUM. I can only guess how many kids she impacted over the years, and how many now consider science to be one of their favorite subjects. One of them lives at my house - I know Staci encouraged his inquiries, theories, and wonder. She will be missed by so many.
