“ Still come back to remember my best friend almost everyday. Elementary school was an experience with you and living 3 houses down from you was the best I remember playing halo on the Xbox after school everyday. Wish I would have been able to see you more. Miss you more and more 🕊️

“ Uriah was in my third grade classroom. He always had a beautiful smile. He, to this day, was by far the best reader that I've ever had in the third grade. He was such a talented young man. I'm so sorry for your loss.

“ He'll be greatly missed. He was a bright kid, really easy to get along with, and always one to hold conversations about his passions. RIP buddy.

“ My deepest condolences to the family with the loss of a brilliant young man. I worked very closely with Uriah with obtaining his GED. Even on the days we didn't work on his testing; he thought he wasn't going to be able to get it done. The time I got to spend with him, will always be cherished. He was before his time with knowledge and wisdom. He had so many goals and things he wanted to experience. I encouraged him to write a book because he had a story to tell. His life was filled with ups and downs but he wanted to see the good. I am so happy he got reunited with his family, started working and doing the things he always wanted to do. It's not over Blakey, you are just getting started. May you rest well.
