“ We are so sad to hear about Jean. You are all in our thoughts and prayers. My mother, Natalie Christison, was Jean's first cousin. They visited together at their homes and at wonderful family reunions. Jean and Robert meant more to me than you can know. I won't forget the times as children that my sister and I spent at their home in the summer, visiting the store, hunting for persimmons, and baking with Jean. These visits became deeply rooted in my heart and had a great part in who I came to be. I grew up loving the countryside, and my husband and I built a home in the country and modeled it as close to theirs as possible. The memories remain so sweet, as was Jean. I will never forget Jean and Robert, and I know they are together once again and with Jesus in Heaven. So grateful and honored to have known you, Jean. Carol Young with Dennis, daughter Natalie Hogan, and son, Nathan.

“ Nanna was a truly beautiful lady. I feel lucky to have had a brief relationship with her since my daughter, Lynn, married her grandson, Bill. She opened her home to us when Lynn, Tom, Joe and I drove to Bloomington. We picked up Nanna and she took us to her favorite strawberry patch. After, we took our strawberries back to the house where she demonstrated to us, "how to make her special strawberry jam". Of course she had a cake baked and we cleaned our berries and enjoyed the most wonderful Strawberry Shortcake with real whipped cream. What a delightful day for all of us. A special, special memory.
